The Convenient Pocket Again

THE uses for a white serge suit are legion in the late spring and summer, and for the vacationist the white serge suit is a positive boon. So desirable a garment is it that one finds it in various guises season after season. This year its lines are short, chic and irresistible.

Note the outfit in green and white. Could lines be more youthful and attractive? The model is designed for a slender woman or young girl, although if the deep girder-bodice is modified and the jacket lengthened it may be worn by the slightly plump woman. The lapel on sleeve is the same color as is found in the soft kid belt. The wide and comfortable skirt is smartly stitched.

Very good lines are seen in the white serge suit with which the blue-and-white Georgette crepe blouse is worn. The button-trimmed revers are new, as is the button-trimmed yoke upon the skirt. The whole model is an excellent one for the girl who approves the carelessness or carelessness figure. The pretty white hat is worked in blue and faced with black.

A hint of the Directoire riding habit is to be found in the white serge suit whose tailless blouse jacket is confined by a belt of the material having embroidered tabs. The tabs of this particular model are embroidered in sand-colored silk. The buttons may be molds covered with white serge, or they may be in white or brown pearl. Crocheted buttons may also be used. A band of the serge is worn about the neck. The quaint hat is carried out in two shades of brown, with a square pearl buckle. If the suit buttons are to be of brown pearl, the hat buckle should match. This same costume carried out in black and white, the still leading combination of the season, would be particularly attractive.

Both charm and smartness are to be had in the three-piece suit of white serge embroidered in cerise wool or silk. A detachable suspender is worn over the blouse. It is also of the serge. The belt at the normal waist line is of the material and is made in one with the skirt. The blouse is of white Georgette crepe embroidered in cerise. White serge buttons trim the skirt. These may be substituted with buttons of pearl if preferred.

The second model of the same suit shows the addition of the short and clever jacket, with its unusual arrangement of buttons on both the low-cut neck and pocket. Instead of being buttoned at the front closing, the jacket is laced through a few eyelets. The puffed sleeves are visible at the end of the three-quarter sleeves. Buttonholes and lacing in the jacket, and the buttonholes upon the skirt, may be in cerise if one is desirous of emphasizing the color combination. A black ribbon at the throat forms a strong character note. Utly smartness, and yet the greatest simplicity, is found in the small hat of white fabric embroidered in cerise and faced with black silk.

Note the Laced-on Sleeve

Long live the white serge suit! It is an indispensable article in the wardrobe of the smart woman who has a bit of time now and then that she may devote to "leisure." It is not so difficult, either, to keep clean as one would imagine.

DIRECT VIOLATION OF HAGUE CONVENTION

German Pirates Sink Three British Trawling Vessels.

Also Burn a Norwegian Ship--Dutch Vessel Blown Up.

London, April 3.—During the last 24 hours news has been received in the United Kingdom of the sinking of three British trawling vessels, the Norwegian trawler, St. Peter, by a German submarine, and the Dutch trawler, St. Peter, blown up. The sinking of the St. Peter is a violation of the Hague Convention of 1907, which expressly forbids the use of submarines in connection with the capture of merchant vessels. The St. Peter was captured by a German submarine, and the Dutch trawler, St. Peter, was blown up. The sinking of the St. Peter is a violation of the Hague Convention of 1907, which expressly forbids the use of submarines in connection with the capture of merchant vessels. The St. Peter was captured by a German submarine, and the Dutch trawler, St. Peter, was blown up.

The British steamer St. Peter, formerly of the Southport, the crew of which was rescued at Letch, was reported to be in a storm, as at first reported, but was sunk by the German submarine 17.50 miles off Cape Finisterre, according to a letter received from London. The St. Peter was a trawler of the range of 100 tons, and was carrying a cargo of fish. The sinking of the St. Peter is a violation of the Hague Convention of 1907, which expressly forbids the use of submarines in connection with the capture of merchant vessels. The St. Peter was captured by a German submarine, and the Dutch trawler, St. Peter, was blown up.

RUSSIANS ADVANCING ALONG ENTIRE FRONT

Take Offensive From Baltic To Roumania

—585,000 New Men.

Austrian Raid Into Bessarabia Ends In a Disaster.

London, April 3.—The Russians now are on the offensive along the whole of their front, from the Baltic Sea to the Roumanian frontier, and in the Caucasus, and, according to a Stockholm dispatch, they have concentrated an enormous number of soldiers on the coast of Finland to meet the German attack.

All the Russian advances, according to Russian reports, are proceeding with success. The Russian official report issued to-day makes it clear that the Germans in North Poland are being pushed back to the East Prussian border, and that in the Carpathians between the Lemberg and Uman Passes the Russians have captured still another strongly fortified ridge, overcoming in doing so almost insuperable difficulties, and at the same time capturing a large number of prisoners.

Local frontier troops have not been able to repulse the Russian attack, and the Russian advance is continuing. The Russian advance is continuing, and the Russian advance is continuing.

It is known that the Austrian main body in Bukovina, with German reinforcements, is being pushed back. The Russian advance is continuing, and the Russian advance is continuing.

The retreat of the Germans on the North Russian front is being pushed back. The Russian advance is continuing, and the Russian advance is continuing.

It is declared that the Turks have now been entirely cleared out of Transylvania, and that the Russian advance is continuing, and the Russian advance is continuing.

Petrograd, April 3.—The double failure of the enemy's offensive in the Caucasus, and the Russian advance is continuing, and the Russian advance is continuing.

THE MAN IN OVERALLS

It used to be the man with the hoe. Now it is the man with the rake.

Least Ballard told in Thursday evening's Times the kind of comfort the boys need.

With two theatres running on the same line, the boys need the man in overalls.

I have always thought that it would be a good plan to disband our foreign legion.

Yes, all those useless people who come down.

Dogie will have to be tied up now or the boys will be in for it.

The theatre must be closed for good to the boys.

A lot of us are in favor of prohibition.

Are you going to move this spring or just put up with the landlord?

It looks to me like a hawk should be sent to the boys.

But it won't be long before we will all be kicking at the boys.

The Mayor should insist that the boys be sent to the boys.

What shall we do with Woodson?

He is an easy one for the boys.

Col. Ashton's Command Mobilized
and Are a Fine Body of

XIII. HAD OUTING

Most of the Hamilton Second Contingent Here For Baster.

The mobilization of the Thirty-eighth battalion was completed shortly before 11 o'clock today, when the 2nd Pioneer regiment from Windsor, 2nd and officers and men, arrived in Hamilton per O.T.R., marched to the old armory and were assigned quarters. The Thirty-eighth Pioneer regiment yesterday left for the front.
Tonight over 1,000 men will sleep at the old armory and attend divine service tomorrow as members of the King's army.

Col. Ashton announced this morning that beginning next week a regular routine of training would be maintained. This was not practical until all of the units of the battalion had arrived. He regards the men of the Thirty-eighth as a splendid body of young men who will make excellent soldiers. He declared that he intended to give the men every possible latitude
in connection with the camp, in order that the public might have the military detail in regard to the military training.

All of the members of the battalion
attended divine service tomorrow,
other than those who will be doing guard duty. There will be a band concert in the armory at 8 o'clock.
The chaplain of the battalion, the Rev. B. D. Thompson, M.A., will officiate. The Thirty-eighth has volunteered to lead the march and supply service for the army.

Col. Ashton appreciated
the very much. Leaves with hymns printed thereon will be distributed among the men, they being provided by Captain Ross.
For those of the Catholic faith, a Mass will be held at 9 o'clock, and this parade will be held, and the men are expected to arrive in Hamilton. Officers will, of course, be absent from the men to be cathedralized. Officers demanding an officer, when more than twenty, the non-commissioned officers only accompany the soldiers. The parade is at St. Mary's Cathedral, at 9 o'clock.

Yesterday was spent rather quietly
by the volunteers, although some were out for a walk. The weather was last night they enjoyed a short march out through the principality of the King's army.

Of the Hamilton men with the second contingent, mobilized at Toronto,
the large number of the contingent yesterday. Fifty per cent of the Hamilton men were mobilized at the Hamilton armory
yesterday, and the other fifty per cent
will be mobilized at the Hamilton armory
yesterday.
